

DISTINGVISHED
AMERICAN ARTISTS

JAMES
MCNEILL
WHISTLER

EX
LIBRIS

MARYGROVE

DISTINGUISHED AMERICAN ARTISTS

JAMES McNEILL WHISTLER

JAMES MCNEILL WHISTLER
Pennell Collection, Library of Congress, Washington

1124
*DISTINGUISHED
AMERICAN ARTISTS*

JAMES
McNEILL
WHISTLER

Compiled by
NATHANIEL
POUSETTE-DART

With an introduction by
Joseph & Elizabeth Robbins Pennell

NEW YORK
FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY
PUBLISHERS

Copyright, 1924, by
FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY

All rights reserved

Printed in the United States of America

JAMES McNEILL WHISTLER

JAMES McNEILL WHISTLER is the greatest of all American artists, the greatest of all artists of his time. His greatness is not to be accounted for by environment or inheritance. He was born in America at a period when art was an alien in the country; he came of a family of soldiers; he was educated in the Military Academy at West Point; he began his career in a Government office at Washington;—far from those influences known to have made some men artists in spite of themselves. He is, therefore, the most splendid proof of his true belief that “art happens.”

He had at least the advantage of a training in Paris, though it was begun at an age when the average student leaves the schools, and, according to his critics, he profited little by it. Poynter, the industrious Briton, called him the Idle Yankee Apprentice, and this still lingers, though Poynter is near forgotten. But more came of his idleness than of most men's industry, and his early paintings and etchings were the heralds of his greatness—his genius—for from the beginning he was absorbed in the pursuit of beauty. He was an artist born and not a ready-made painter.

In the prevailing idea of him today he was not only the Idle Apprentice but the rebel, posing in his work as the leader of revolt and the enemy of tradition, doing strange things to call attention to himself, as he later did, knowing if he did not he would be ignored or reviled—then none too mean not to revile him, now none to grand not to toady to him. But there never was an artist whose belief in tradition was so unwavering, whose respect for the art of the past was so strong, whose love for the beautiful was so deep. He would have had no use for the so-called Modernists who are concerned not with art but their escape from it, because otherwise they are failures. He would have had no sympathy with men who, disdainful of the beauty created by artists through the ages, attempt self-consciously to return to the gropings of the savage seeking to express what he sees with neither knowledge nor tools—only these latter-day prophets are not savages but incompetents. Whistler's ambition was "to carry on," and if he was not understood by the people in whose midst he lived, the fault was theirs, and theirs the loss. It was a grief to him that he felt bitterly. That was why he laughed, and then they understood him less than ever.

It was not to escape from his responsibility as an artist, not notoriety, not eccentricity he strove for, but beauty always—beauty of design, beauty of line, beauty of colour, beauty of handling, beauty of surface—"the one skin all over it" that delighted him. Not even when he wrote his joyous, cruel letters to the press, or his Art and Art Critics, and The Ten o'Clock, was he for a moment forgetful of the beauty which he gave to everything he touched, and his Gentle Art is not only one of the few great books on art, but a masterpiece of the art of writing. The artists, whether of Paris or Tokio, of Spain or Holland, or even England, who could teach him anything of the beauty he sought were his masters. It is easy to point to this inspiration and that in his prints and paintings, to the debt he owed at the start to Courbet and Fantin, then to Hiroshige and Hokusai at the foot of Fusiyama,— easy to trace the influence of the greatest of all, the Master at Madrid, the first in his portraits to make men stand upon their feet and to fill his canvasses with atmosphere and light, or his interest in "subject pictures" when painted by Terborch or Titian. Nobody was readier than Whistler to accept the truths these men had taught him and the technical methods they had solved long before. There is the story of him at the very end, old, recovering from a serious illness, standing on a chair in the gallery at Haarlem that he might see and feel the wonderful brushwork of Franz Hals and try to find out how it was done. But always, whatever debt can be discovered, whatever influence traced to the past, he was himself, unmistakable, untiring in his pursuit of beauty, constant in his belief that beauty is the end of art, not "emotions entirely foreign to it"—the faith for which he was ridiculed by the popular Victorian painters of anecdotes, classical, scriptural and domestic, by the up-to-date Americans of today, Victorians too in the valour of their ignorance. He was a realist in his reliance upon Nature; but from Nature it was his right as artist to pick and choose and, spurning the ugly and the vulgar, he chose the beautiful, the exquisite, translating all into "the painter's poetry."

Here is the reason of his greatness. And if we say he was the greatest artist of his time, it is because he succeeded absolutely in his lifelong search, not only in one, but in many mediums. Paint alone could not satisfy him. There were things he could say better in other ways and he was not content until he had tried and mastered them all. He was not a lop-sided painter but a many-sided artist.

In the technique of etching he had been trained in the Coast Survey office. No sooner was he in Paris than he used this training to begin that long series of etchings which place him above Rembrandt—yes, above Rembrandt, as we know, and the world has begun to know. Never has the etched line expressed form with such mastery. The line is vital, direct, the effect obtained with the utmost rightness. But if Whistler was ever the same in his concern with beauty, he was never mannered. He might say that there was no change in his work, that the last did not differ from the first. But there was growth—the elaboration of the French Set through the Thames Set, developing into the Venice Set, and then the austere simplicity of the latest again in France. Always, however, in them all was the same vital, expressive line.

He would admit of no change in his painting either, no difference from first to last, but again growth—growth through the period when Courbèt fired his enthusiasm and he painted Alone with the Tide, At the Piano, and The Music Room, and showed them, and at once they made for him the reputation which has been rapidly increasing ever since; growth through the period when Japan held him under its spell, and no loveliness was to him as the loveliness of night, the Japanese Pictures, with their wealth of beautiful detail, leading to the Nocturnes, more eloquent in their simplicity, and to the Six Projects, never carried out in the large decorative scheme for which they were the motives; growth through the period when Velasquez claimed his allegiance and he, too, made his men and women stand upon their feet, in air and light. But always and in every period, Whistler is Whistler himself and no one else, always concerned with beauty, always adapting his technique to express it in its full perfection, his mark set upon the Mother, and Carlyle, the Miss Alexander, and Rosa Corder of his young Chelsea days, no less than upon the Lady Meux, Sarasate, and Yellow Buskin of his joyous return from Venice, or the Little Rose, and Master Smith of Lyme Regis, painted in the sad twilight of his later years.

And so with every other medium. He experimented in lithography and with his first experiments mastered the medium as triumphantly as in the last, beauty ever the aim and the fulfillment of his many portraits as of his impressions of architecture and the Thames he loved. He turned to water-colour and the simplest washes again yielded beauty, whether of the little sun-drenched room, or the rain-washed English skies, or the red roofs nestling in the sand dunes of Holland. He took up pastel at the darkest moment of his life and, once at work, drawing on sheets of tinted paper with a few colours, his own most sad misfortunes could not dull his eyes to the vision of beauty in Venice, nor stay his hand in the rendering of the life around him.

In his study of Beauty throught every period and in every medium, Whistler gained power with the passing of the years. The Ists of our degenerate days would appropriate "expressionism" as their monopoly, certain that no artists every sought to express themselves before. But Whistler was the true expressionist—even the unimpressed and the expressionless have to accept him—unceasing in his endeavour to express himself in terms of beauty, for to him art and beauty were inseparable. And he knew there could be no beauty, no art, without refinement, without delicacy, without perfection. In his words, art is a dainty goddess; also a jealous mistress, demanding the artist's unswerving devotion, and all the labour of his days, her servant and her master. He gave her both without reserve. And yet, it was only at the end of his life that he felt he was at the beginning of his knowledge and his accomplishment. He, who was looked upon by his contemporaries as irresponsible and a charlatan in his art, was the most thorough, the most hard-working, the most persevering of all artists, understanding the truth that genius without industry is of no avail. To the revelation of beauty in his art his time and his energies were consecrated, and the reward of this consecration was the success that endures.

Only in his own country has the generous recognition, the worthy tribute been slow in coming. He is not yet in the Hall of Fame among the great American artists, of some of whom few ever heard. But the great art and the great literature he created honour him more than any bust. And today he, like Lincoln, has his monument in Washington—in the Library of Congress and the Freer Gallery—but few know and fewer care. However, as we wrote in our Life of Whistler, "His name and his fame will live forever."

J. and E. R. PENNELL,

Authors of the "Authorized Life of Whistler" and the "Whistler Journal."

The sixty-four paintings herein reproduced illustrate the varied characteristics of this artist's work.

LA MERE GERARD
Owned by A. Edward Newton, Esq.

PORTRAIT OF LUKE A. IONIDES
Owned by the Estate of Luke A. Ionides

THE MUSIC ROOM

*Owned by Smithsonian Institution, Freer Gallery of Art,
Washington, D. C.*

THE COAST OF BRITTANY
Courtesy of the C. W. Kraushaar Art Galleries

LA PRINCESSE DU PAYS DE LA PORCELAINÉ
*Owned by Smithsonian Institution, Freer Gallery of Art,
Washington, D. C.*

AT THE PIANO
Painted by Edmund Davis, Esq.

THE WHITE GIRL
(Symphony in White, No. I)
Owned by Harris Whitmore, Esq.

THE LITTLE WHITE GIRL
(Symphony in White, No. II)

THE THAMES IN ICE

Owned by Smithsonian Institution, Freer Gallery of Art, Washington, D. C.

WAPPING
Owned by Mrs. Hutton

FROM "THE LIFE OF WHISTLER," BY E. R. & J. PENNELL

BLUE AND SILVER, THE BLUE WAVE PAINTING

OWNED BY A. A. POPE, ESQ.

COURTESY OF J. B. LIPPINCOTT CO.

THE LAST OF OLD WESTMINSTER
Owncd by the Estate of A. A. Pope

THE BALCONY

(Variations in Flesh Color and Green)

*Owned by Smithsonian Institution, Freer Gallery of Art,
Washington, D. C.*

SYMPHONY IN WHITE, No. III
Owned by Edmund Davis, Esq.

THE GOLD SCREEN

DIE LANGE LEIZEN, OF THE SIX MARKS
(Purple and Rose)

Owned by the John G. Johnson Collection, Philadelphia, Pa.

NOCTURNE—BLUE AND GOLD—VALPARAISO
Owned by Smithsonian Institution, Freer Gallery of Art, Washington, D. C.

THE OCEAN
Owned by the Frick Collection, New York
Courtesy M. Knoedler & Co.

WHISTLER IN HIS STUDIO
Owned by the Chicago Art Institute

THE WHITE SYMPHONY—THREE GIRLS
Owned by Smithsonian Institution, Freer Gallery of Art,
Washington, D. C.

OLD BATTERSEA BRIDGE
Owned by the Tate Gallery, London

NOCTURNE ARRANGEMENT IN GREY AND GOLD
*Owned by Harris Whittemore, Esq.
Courtesy M. Knoedler & Co.*

PORTRAIT OF THE PAINTER'S MOTHER
Owned by Luxembourg Gallery, Paris

PORTRAIT OF THOMAS CARLYLE
Owned by the Glasgow Art Gallery

PORTRAIT OF MISS ALEXANDER
(Harmony in Grey and Green)
Owned by the Tate Gallery, London

PORTRAIT OF THE ARTIST
Courtesy of J. B. Lippincott Co.

PORTRAIT OF F. R. LEYLAND
*Owned by
Smithsonian Institution,
Freer Gallery of Art,
Washington, D. C.*

MRS. F. R. LEYLAND
(Symphony in Flesh Color and Pink)
Owned by the Frick Collection, New York

PORTRAIT OF MISS KINSEILA
Owned by Miss Kinseila
Courtesy of J. B. Lippincott Co.

THE FALLING ROCKET
(Nocturne in Black and Gold)
*Owned by Mrs. Samuel Untermyer
Courtesy of J. B. Lippincott Co.*

ROSA CORDER

*Owned by the Frick Collection, New York
Courtesy M. Knoedler & Co.*

THE FUR JACKET

*Owned by the Worcester Art Museum
Courtesy of the Macbeth Gallery*

CREMORNE GARDENS No. 2
Owned by the Metropolitan Museum

PORTRAIT OF PABLO SARASATE
Owned by the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh

THE LADY WITH THE YELLOW BUSKIN
(Lady Archibald Campbell)

Owned by the Pennsylvania Museum, Willstack Collection, Philadelphia

LADY ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL AS ORLANDO
Owned by the Ralston Gallery

SIR HENRY IRVING AS PHILIP II OF SPAIN
Owned by the Metropolitan Museum

THÉODORE DURET

Owned by the Metropolitan Museum

CONNIE GILCHRIST
Owned by the Metropolitan Museum

Photograph by Katherine E. McClellan

PORTRAIT OF MRS. LEWIS JARVIS
*Owned by the Hillyer Art Gallery, Smith College
Courtesy M. Knoedler & Co.*

ROSE AND GOLD

(Lady Sophie of Soho)

*Owned by Smithsonian Institution, Freer Gallery of Art,
Washington, D. C.*

DAUGHTER OF THE CONCIERGE
*Owned by Theodore T. Ellis, Esq.
Courtesy of the Macbeth Gallery*

TRAFALGAR SQUARE
Owned by Smithsonian Institution, Freer Gallery of Art,

MARINE
Owned by the Cincinnati Museum

MISS LILLIAN WOAKES

*Owned by the Phillip Memorial Gallery, Washington, D. C.
Courtesy M. Knoedler & Co.*

BLEU ET VIOLET
(La Belle de Jour)
Courtesy M. Knoedler & Co.

THE WHITE LADY

Owned by John F. Braun, Esq.

Courtesy of the C. W. Kraushaar Art Galleries

L'AMERICAINE

*Owned by Smithsonian Institution, Freer Gallery of Art,
Washington, D. C.*

LA NAPOLITAINE ROSE ET OR
(Madam Carmen)
*Owned by George H. Webster, Esq.
Courtesy M. Knodler & Co.*

EDWARD G. KENNEDY
Owned by the Metropolitan Museum

VIOLINIST
Courtesy of the Macbeth Gallery

MRS. WALTER SICKERT

Owned by Mr. Harold Somers, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Courtesy M. Knoedler & Co.

THE MASTER SMITH OF LYNE REGIS
Owned by the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston

LITTLE ROSE OF LYNE REGIS
Owned by the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston

LADY IN GRAY
Owned by the Metropolitan Museum

LE COMTE ROBERT

*Owned by the Frick Collection, New York
Courtesy M. Knoedler & Co.*

GIRL IN BLACK

(Pouting Tom)

*Owned by H. H. Benedict, New York City
Courtesy M. Knoedler & Co.*

PORTRAIT STUDY

THE WIDOW

*Owned by the Worcester Art Museum
Courtesy of the Macbeth Gallery*

PRETTY NELLIE BROWN
*Owned by Frank Lusk Babbott, Esq.
Courtesy of Moffat, Yard & Co.*

THE BLUE BONNET
*Owned by Mrs. Herbert L. Pratt
Courtesy of the Macbeth Gallery*

ARRANGEMENT IN PINK AND PURPLE
Owned by the Cincinnati Museum

STUDY IN ROSE AND BROWN

*Owned by the Hackley Gallery, Muskegon, Mich.
Courtesy of the Macbeth Gallery*

PORTRAIT OF RICHARD CANFIELD
*Owned by the Cincinnati Art Museum Association
Courtesy M. Knoedler & Co.*

WHISTLER, JAMES MCNEILL, Painter and etcher, born at Lowell, Mass., July 10, 1834, died 1903. Studied in Paris.

MEMBER OF

LEGION OF HONOR, Chevalier, 1889, Officer, 1892
SOCIÉTÉ NATIONALE DES BEAUX-ARTS
ROYAL ACADEMIE OF ST. LUKE, Rome—Hon. Member
ORDER OF THE CROWN OF ITALY—Commander
ROYAL ACADEMY OF BAVARIA—Hon. Member
ORDER OF ST. MICHAEL, Bavaria—Chevalier
ROYAL ACADEMY OF DRESDEN—Hon. Member
ROYAL SCOTTISH ACADEMY—Hon. Member
INTERNATIONAL SOCIETY OF SCULPTORS, PAINTERS AND GRAVERS—First President
LL.D. OF GLASGOW UNIVERSITY.

AWARDS

Portrait of Mother admitted under protest (1872) to Royal Academy Exhibition. Exhibited (1884) at Paris Salon, awarded Medal of 3rd Class.
Bought (1891) by French Government for Luxembourg Gallery.
Medal, Paris, 3rd Class, 1883.
Elected (1886) President of the Society of British Artists.
Made Member of Munich Academy (1889) and received Cross of Order of St. Michael.
Grand Prix, Paris, 1900.
Gold Medal at Paris, Venice, Munich, Amsterdam, Chicago, Philadelphia, Antwerp, Dresden, etc.

REPRESENTED IN

BROOKLYN MUSEUM.
CARNEGIE INSTITUTE, PITTSBURGH.
CHICAGO ART INSTITUTE.
CINCINNATI MUSEUM.
FREER GALLERY OF ART, WASHINGTON, D. C.
THE FRICK COLLECTION, NEW YORK.
GLASGOW CORPORATION ART GALLERY.
HACKLEY GALLERY, MUSKEGON, MICH.
HILLYER ART GALLERY, SMITH COLLEGE.
HIS MAJESTY'S COLLECTION, WINDSOR.
JOHN G. JOHNSON COLLECTION, PHILADELPHIA.
LUXEMBOURG MUSEUM, PARIS.
METROPOLITAN MUSEUM, NEW YORK.
MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS, BOSTON.
NATIONAL GALLERY, LONDON.
RYKS MUSEUM, AMSTERDAM.
SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION.
TATE GALLERY, LONDON.
WILSTUCK COLLECTION, PHILADELPHIA MUSEUM OF ART.
WORCESTER ART MUSEUM.

PUBLISHED MATTER

American Magazine of Art, New York, 1919, 8°, vol. 10, pp. 201-206.
Whistler—Note in an Exhibition of Whistleriana.—Albert E. Gallatin.

- American Monthly Review of Reviews*, vol. 28, pp. 173-176. Whistler.—Ernst Knauff.
- Architekt*, Wien, 1916-1918, 8°, Jahrg. 21, pp. 53-56. Meine Erlebnisse mit James McNeill Whistler aus dem Jahre 1898.—Josef Engelhart.
- Art in America*, New York, 1913, 4°, vol. 1, pp. 151-158. Whistler, the Self-Portraits in Oil.—Albert E. Gallatin.
- Art Journal*, vol. 68, pp. 193-195, 237-239. The Whistler Dynasty at Suffolk Street.—A. Ludovici.
- Art Journal*, London, 1903, pp. 265-268. Whistler, Some Personal Recollections.—D. Croal Thomson.
- Art World*, New York, 1917, vol. 3, pp. 12-13, f.°. Whistler and His Influence.—George B. Rose.
- Arts*, New York, Jan., 1921, vol. 1, p. 49, 4°. Is It a Whistler?
- Atlantic Monthly*, Boston, 1903, vol. 92, pp. 826-838. Whistler.—Royal Cortissoz.
- Atlantic Monthly*, Boston, April, 1921. Whistler.—Gamaliel Bradford.
- The Baker & Taylor Co.*, New York, 1908. Whistler, Modern Artists.—Christon Brinton.
- Belgium Internat. Studio*, vol. 23, pp. 7-12. Whistler.—Octave Maus.
- G. Bell & Sons*, London, 1911, x, 277 p., 12°. William Morris to Whistler.—Walter Crane.
- G. Bell & Sons*, London, 1903, xx, 127, [1] p. col. front., plates (part col.), ports. 23½ em. The Art of Whistler.—Thomas Robert Way. An appreciation by T. R. Way and G. R. Dennis.
- Bergamo*, 1921, vol. 54, pp. 81-82, 4°. Le acquaforti di J. M. N. Whistler Emporium.—Romualdo Pántini.
- Bibliophile Society*, Boston, 1913, 1 l., 13 fac., f.°. Mr. Whistler's Lecture on Art.—Algernon Charles Swinburne.
- Booklovers' Magazine*, vol. 6, pp. 14-19, Edinburgh, 1905. Whistler.—T. R. Way and G. R. Dennis.
- Bookman*, New York, 1903, vol. 18, pp. 69-70. Whistler and Swinburne.—Gardner C. Teall.
- Bookman*, London, 1912, vol. 43, pp. 19-30, 2 pl. The Triumph of Whistler.—Joseph Pennell.
- Book News Monthly*, Philadelphia, 1912, vol. 30, p. 634-638, 8°. Whistler's West Point Drawings.—Day Allen Wil'ey.
- Brush and Pencil*, vol. 13, pp. 436-449. The Whistler Memorial Exhibition.—Frederick W. Coburn.
- Brush and Pencil*, vol. 12, pp. 334-359. Whistler, the Man, as Told in Anecdote.—Frank A. Hadley.
- Brush and Pencil*, vol. 12, pp. 319-333. Whistler.—William F. Losee.
- Burlington Magazine*, London, 1905, vol. 6, pp. 430-439. The Whistler Exhibition.—Bernhard Sickert.
- Century Magazine*, New York, 1907, vol. 74, pp. 100-111. Whistler.—Otto Bacher.
- Century Magazine*, New York, 1910, vol. 80, pp. 736-741. Whistler's First Drawings.—Ida Clifton Hinshaw.
- Century Magazine*, New York, 1915, vol. 90, p. 710, 8°. Whistler at West Point.—H. M. Lazelle.
- Chamber's Journal*, vol. 6, pp. 691-696. Whistler: A Memory and a Criticism.—Harry Quilter.
- Charpentier*, Paris, 1915, iv, 338 p., 12°. De Watteau á Whistler.—Camille Faust.
- Chatto & Windus*, London, 1878, 17 p. 1 l., 12°. Whistler v. Ruskin, Art and Art Critics.—James McNeill Whistler.
- The Collector and Art Critic Co.*, 1907, 96 p., 8°. Whistler—Notes and Footnotes and Other Memoranda.—Albert E. Gallatin.
- Constable & Co., Ltd.*, London, 1910, vol. 1, 1 l., 394 p., 1 l., 8°. Studies in Seven Arts.—Arthur Symons.
- Cornhill Magazine*, N. S. V. 15, pp. 760-768. Whistler the Purist. Mortimer Menpes.

- Critic*, New York, 1903, vol. 43, pp. 247-254. Whistler's Boyhood.—A. J. Bloor.
- Division of Prints*, U. S. Library of Congress. The Joseph and Elizabeth Robins Pennell Collection of Whistleriana.
- Dodd, Mead & Co.*, 1923. Whistler: Famous Painters of America.—Joseph Walker McSpadden.
- Duckworth & Co.*, London, 1908, xiv, 299 p., 1 facsim., 14 pl., 13 port. 8°. Whistler—Some Eminent Victorians.—Joseph William Comyns Carr.
- Duckworth & Co.*, London, 1908, xvi, 175 p., 16°. Whistler.—Bernard Sickert.
- Elsevier's Geïlust Maandsch.*, vol. 33, pp. 147-155. Wat van Whistler to Rotterdam.—Joh. de Meester. 1 port.
- Émile-Paul, frères*, Paris, 1912. Essais et Portraits, 2 p. 1 (1) 8-171, p. 40. Whistler.—Émile Jacques Blanche.
- Émile-Paul, frères*, Paris, 1919. Propos de peintre d. David á Degas, ser. 1, Whistler, Émile Jacques Blanche.
- Forum*, New York, 1914, 8°, vol. 52, pp. 338-355. Whistler.—Artist and Bantam.—Frank Harris.
- Fox, Duffield & Co.*, New York, 1905, 6. pl., 311 p., 12°. Whistler—Old Masters and New.—Kenyon Cox.
- Gazette des Beaux-Arts*, Paris, 1905, ser. 3, vol. 33, pp. 403-410, 496-511; vol. 34, pp. 142-158, 231-246. Whistler: Artistes Contemporains.—Léonce Bénédite.
- Gazette des Beaux-Arts*, Paris, 1881, période 2, tome 23, pp. 365-369. Whistler.—Theodore Duret.
- Gazette des Beaux-Arts*, Paris, 1903, ser. 3, vol. 30, pp. 381-390. Notes sur James McNeill Whistler.—Pascal Forthuny.
- Graphischen Künste*, Wien, 1904, Jahrg. 27, pp. 53-56. Whistler.—Cam-bell Dodgson.
- Harper Brothers*, 1913, 5 pl., 139 p., 1 l., 1 port., 24°. Whistler Stories.—Don Carlos Seitz.
- W. Heinemann*, London, 1905, 126 p., 8°. International Society Sculptors, Painters and Gravers. Memorial exhibition of James McNeill Whistler.
- William Heinemann*, London, 1908, 2 vols., port., 4°. The Authorized Life of James McNeill Whistler.—Elizabeth Robins and Joseph Pennell.
- Heretics*, London, 1909, 12°, pp. 234-246. On the Art of Whistler.—Gilbert K. Chesterton.
- Houghton Mifflin Co.*, Boston and New York. Whistler—American Portraits.—Gamaliel Bradford.
- Idler*, vol. 23, pp. 658-666. Whistler.—Elbert Hubbard.
- International Quarterly*, vol. 10, No. 1, pp. 156-164. The Whistler I Knew.—Harper Pennington.
- International Studio*, vol. 20, pp. 237-245. Whistler: His Art and Influence.—A. L. Baldry.
- International Studio*, New York, 1904, vol. 21, pp. 210-218. A Few of the Various Whistlers I Have Known.—G. H. Boughton.
- International Studio*, New York, 1903, vol. 20, p. cliii-clvi. Whistler.—Charles H. Caffin.
- International Studio*, vol. 25, pp. 224-232. The International Society's Whistler Exhibition.
- International Studio*, New York, 1904, vol. 20, pp. 245-257. Reminiscences of Whistler.—Dorothy Menpes.
- International Studio*, New York, 1905, vol. 25, pp. 237-241. Reminiscences of the Whistler Academy.—Mary Augusta Mulliken.
- International Studio*, New York, 1921, vol. 72, pp. cv-cxiii, 4°. The Forty Undiscovered Whistlers.—Joseph Pennell.
- International Studio*, vol. 21, pp. 97-107. Reminiscences of Whistler—Some Venice Recollections.—William Scott.
- International Studio*, vol. 21, pp. 3-10. The Oil Painting of Whistler.—Oswald Sickert.
- Kunst F. Alle*, Jahrg. 22, pp. 201-216. Whistler.—Albert Dreyfus.

- Kunst u. Künstler*, Berlin, 1905, Jahrg. 3, pp. 445-466. Whistler.—Harry Graf Kessler.
- Kunst u. Künstler*, Berlin, 1903, Jahrg. 1, port. 1, pp. 464-468. Whistler.—Oswald Sicket.
- Künstler und Kritiker*, Berlin, 1908, Jahrg. 6, pp. 377-380. Glossen von McNeill Whistler.
- J. Lane Co.*, 1912, 4 p.l. (i) viii-x, 49 p., ill., 18 pl., 3 port. Whistler's Pastels and Other Modern Profues.—Albert E. Gallatin.
- Les Arts*, Paris, 1903, no. 21 (Sept.), pp. 22-32. Whistler.—Arsène Alexander.
- Les Lettres et les Arts*, Paris, 1888, 4°, amee 3, tome 1, pp. 215-226. Whistler et son œuvre.—Théodore Duret.
- J. B. Lippincott Co.*, Philadelphia, 1917, 135 p., 20 pl., 12 port., 4°. Whistler.—Théodore Duret.
- J. B. Lippincott Co.*, Philadelphia, 1903, 296 p., 12 pl., 1 port., 8°. Recollections and Impressions of James McNeill Whistler.—Arthur Jerome Eddy.
- Lippincott Co.*, 1921, xxi, 339 p., 8°. The Whistler Journal.—Elizabeth Robins and Joseph Penneil, authors of The Authorized Life of James McNeill Whistler.
- Literary Collector*, New York, 1900-1901. Whistler—Notes towards a Bibliography.—Albert E. Gallatin.
- Literary Collector*, New York, vol. 1, no. 385. Whistler—Notes Towards a Bibliography.—Albert E. Gallatin.
- Little Jour.*, East Aurora, 1902, vol. 2, pp. 131-158.—Elbert Hubbard.
- London*, 1910, J. Long. Echoes of Whistler.—Louis Charles Alexander.
- Macmillan Co.*, 1904, xxvi, 153, 114 pl. (part col'd), 19 port. (3 col'd, incl. front.), 4°. Whistler as I Knew Him.—Mortimer Menpes.
- Magazine of Art*, 1903, N. S. V. 1, pp. 577-580, 1 pl. Whistler: Personal Recollections.—Val Prinsep.
- Magazine of Art*, London, 1903, N. S. V. 1, pp. 580-584; N. S. V. 2 (Nov., 1903), pp. 8-16. Whistler: The Man and the Artist.—M. H. Spielmann.
- M. F. Mansfield & Co.*, New York, 1901, 70 p., 4 pl., 3 port. 8°. Whistler, the Man and His Work. W. G. Bowdoin.
- Masters in Art*, Boston, 1907, vol. 8 (pt. 96), pp. 23-42, 8°. James McNeill Whistler.
- E. May*, Paris. James McNeill Whistler, The Baronet and the Butterfly.
- Metropolitan Magazine*, New York, 1904, vol. 20, pp. 728-733. Whistler Writing.—Max Beerbohm.
- Metropolitan Magazine*, New York, 1910, vol. 31, pp. 769-776, 8°. The Whistler I Knew.—Harper Pennington.
- Metropolitan Museum of Art*, New York, 1910, xxv, 44 pl., 1 port., 8°. Paintings—Oil and Pastel.—James McNeill Whistler.
- Mofat, Yard & Co.*, 1907, 8 p. 1. (1) 4-302 p., 21 pl., 10 port. 4°. The Works of Whistler, a Study.—Elisabeth Luther Cary.
- Munsey's Magazine*, New York, 1906, vol. 36, pp. 3-20. Whistler from Within.—Christian Brinton.
- Nation*, New York, 1904, vol. 18, pp. 167-169. The Whistler Memorial Exhibition.—Kenyon Cox.
- Nation*, vol. 80, pp. 206-208, 243-245. The Whistler Exhibition.—N. N.
- Nation*, vol. 77, pp. 149-151. Whistler.—N. N.
- Nineteenth Century After*, London, 1904, vol. 55, pp. 665-675. The Place of Whistler.—Frederick Wedmore.
- Nord. u. Süd.*, Berlin, 1909, vol. 130, pp. 31-40, 8°, 1 pl. Whistler.—Hans Rosenhagen.
- North American Review*, vol. 177, pp. 378-384. Whistler.—Joseph Pennell.
- N. Y. State Library, Bibliography*, no. 1, pp. 1-16. Whistler.—Walter Greenwood Forsyth and J. L. Harrison.
- Nuova. antologia Roma*, 1909, ser. 5, vol. 140, pp. 37-54, 8°. Whistler.—Romualdo Pántini.
- Pall Mall Magazine*, vol. 31, pp. 404-417. Whistler.—Wilfred Meynell.

- Sir I. Pitman & Sons, Ltd.*, 1906, xvii, 222 p., front. (port.) 21 em. Whistler and Others.—Frederick Wedmore.
- Procés Célèbres*, vol. 7, pp. 400-429, 433-441. Du peintre Whistler et de Lady Eden.—Lés Demélés.
- G. P. Putnam's Sons*, New York, 1923, 340 p., 8°. The Gentle Art of Making Enemies.—James McNeill Whistler.
- The Reader*, New York, 1903, vol. 2, pp. 387-390. The Gentler Side of Mr. Whistler.—Earl Stetson Crawford.
- Rev. polit. & littér.* sér. 4, vol. 20, pp. 440-444. James Whistler et le mystère dans la peinture.—Camille Mauclair.
- Revista latino Americana*, vol. 1, pp. 128-131. James McNeill Whistler, 1 port., vi, pp. 128-131.
- G. Richards, Ltd.*, London, 1911, 5 p. l., [xi-] xii, 159 p., 15 pl., 9 port., 16°. Whistler: An Estimate and a Biography.—Frank Rutter.
- W. Scott*, London, 1893, 3 p. l., 248 p., 12°. Modern Painting.—George Moore.
- Charles Scribner's Sons*, 1913, viii, 445 p., 8°. Whistler—Art and Common Sense.—Royal Cortissoz.
- C. Scribner's Sons*, 1919, x, 270 p., 24 pl., 8°. American Painting and Its Tradition.—John Charles Van Dyke.
- Scrip*, New York, 1906, 8°, vol. 1, pp. 312-326. French Impressions of Whistler's Art.—Elisabeth Luther Cary.
- Scrip*, New York, 1906, 8°, vol. 2, pp. 45-54. Whistler's Characterizations.—Elisabeth Luther Cary.
- Siegle, Hill & Co.*, London, 1910, 83 p., front. (port.) plates, 16°. (The Langham series of Art Monographs, No. 12.) Whistler.—Hans Wolfgang Singer.
- Whistler, James Abbott McNeill*, 1834-1903. "Ten O'clock," a lecture, Portland, Me., T. B. Mosher, 1920, xii, 64 p., 1 l., front. (port.) pl., fold. facsim. 24 em.
- Whistler*, Paris, 1894, 2d ed., 12°.—J. K. Huysmans.
- Whistler*, In His: The Pathos of Distance, New York, 1913, 12°, pp. 103-124.—James Huneker.
- Ztsch. f. bildende Kunst*, n.f., Leipzig, 1904, n.f., vol. 15, pp. 231-236. Whistler.—Théodore Duret.
- Die Zukunft*. Berlin, 1903, Jahrg. 11, vol. 43, pp. 286-288. Julius Meier-Graese.

3 1927 00087601 8

Date Due

| | | | |
|------------|--|--|--|
| | | | |
| | | | |
| DEC 15 '54 | | | |
| | | | |
| MR 2 '72 | | | |
| MR 16 '72 | | | |
| NO 24 '97 | | | |
| DE 13 '97 | | | |
| | | | |
| | | | |
| | | | |
| | | | |
| | | | |
| | | | |
| | | | |
| | | | |
| | | | |
| | | | |
| | | | |
| | | | |
| | | | |
| | | | |

759.1

W57

P86

cop.2

